I am an Associate Professor of Sociology and have published on Roma and grassroots activism. I am currently researching Brexit and populism.

I joined Labour in 1984 and have been a CLP Chair and member of the executive of Welsh Labour. I have also worked with civil society and was national policy officer respectively for the Gypsy and Traveller Law Reform Coalition (winner of the Liberty human rights award) and the Traveller Movement. I was also researcher to the All-Party Parliamentary Group for Gypsies, Roma and Travellers. I am a board member of the Roma Education Fund, an international NGO supported by George Soros. This experience gives me the skills in campaigning and policy formulation to assist Labour International.

I oppose Brexit and hope we will remain or can return at some point to a reformed EU strongly centred on the ideals of Social Europe. I am proud of Labour's achievements, but I opposed the Iraq war and feel economic policy was too neoliberal. I support Open Labour and feel the Soft Left can help avoid excessive factionalism. Our country and party are in crisis and I, like a growing number of people, feel moved to try and do something.

Over the last 2 years I have made my views well known regarding the lack of communication between the Labour Party and Labour International. I watched on in horror while people that have supported Labour and the international constituency were alienated and harassed until they left the party. There is a dire need for someone to mend the damage and get a Labour government in power. While we now reflect the main party, We do not have a strong enough voice to be heard. With the Brexit farce continuing, we need to be able to put our case far more strongly and ensure all of the British people either working or resident in Europe and worldwide have better representation. My track record within the party is on record. Its beyond time we put our members before political ideals.

If elected, I will ensure that our communications are repaired and fight for the rights of all equally. It is time we had a voice. I am more than happy to elaborate on this should anyone wish to e mail me.

I'm a retired social worker, committed to bottom-up activism. A trade unionist from 1978 until retirement, and a LP member since the 1980's. I live in Andalucia, Spain. I'm the current co-chair of LICC and member of LILA.

As co-chair I promised to:

- Transform LI into a democratic, campaigning, outward looking CLP with an executive committee accountable to our membership.
- Build local groups and branches.
- Improve communications between members/branches.

What progress did we make?

- An expanded LIEC and more voting officers.
- A new General Committee.
- A quadrupling of branches from 5 to 22.

- Use of video-conferencing to connect members/branches.
- A revamped LI newsletter and website.
- Giving members a voice and a vote through all member meetings
- Our Open Selection campaign raised the profile of LI in the LP.
- Stronger links with the wider social movement.

There is more to do:

- Consolidating democracy/accountability in LI at all levels
- Campaigning for member democracy in the LP – Open Selection, policy formation
- Strengthening links with other campaigns/groups e.g. Green New Deal, Migrant Rights, TU's
- Increasing the involvement of under-represented groups (Women, BAME, youth, LGBT, disability issues).

Vote for me and other LILA candidates for a more democratic LI

Since January 2018, when I volunteered with the LI newsletter team, I've learnt to produce and improve our newsletters while discovering how LI works and who makes things happen. I was appointed as assistant editor, but I've been acting editor since February 2019. I also got our website team started with Wordpress, and created an Open Selection campaign website and graphics. I see this as a communications role more than a technical one, but comfort with IT is essential. I first used a computer in 1978, made a website in 1999, joined Facebook and Twitter around 2007. In LI I've quickly learnt to use Mailchimp, Zoom, Slack and Dropbox, and I'm keen to explore new platforms. My aims include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • integrating LI communications and adapting them to our new structure, • recruiting and training an expanded team of media volunteers, • ensuring our communications fit members' needs and are accessible to all, • creating media and training programmes with other LIEC officers, branches and campaigns.

- improving outward communications with Party HQ, MPs, the press, trade unions, international allies, potential new members etc.

I support Corbyn's leadership, belong to LILA, and agree with the LILA manifesto and action plan. I recommend voting for other LILA members.

As a full time carer to two children with disabilities, most of my activism over the last 15 years has centred around issues of disability.

Through founding the Letterkenny Autism Support Group and representing Donegal in the Special Needs Parents Association, I have become an advocate for those with disabilities and their carers; fighting for services or highlighting the lack, assisting benefit claims and providing support to families.

Raising awareness of the challenges we face is very important for me. I was Litigation Friend when my son made legal history by becoming the first person to use the Equalities Act to enforce his right of access to a commercial premises with his assistance dog.

We must be prepared to try new ideas and methods to get people with disabilities and carers involved in the party and in decision-making. We need their experiences and voices as we challenge the Tory government on the PIP scandal, discrimination, lack of meaningful employment, scarcity of supports and services and the many other issues which need tackling.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> I joined the Labour Party in 2016 because, noticing the global shift towards right-wing populism and inspired by the Labour Party under Jeremy Corbyn, I wanted to help to create a fair, equal society. I co-founded the Central and East Europe BLP in 2017/18, of which I've been Secretary since early 2018. Since LGBT+ in Labour International was established, I've been working with our previous LGBT+ Officer, Rainbow Rose, local activists and NGOs in Czech Republic, particularly as we currently have a same-sex marriage debate here. As such, I'm used to working with social media, videoconferencing and on the ground. Although Czech Republic is one of the safer, more tolerant countries in my branch, it still falls behind in LGBT+ rights and I'm aware of issues LGBT+ members may face in less tolerant (or downright intolerant) countries. Also, as a Christian woman with a fluid sexual identity, I'm sensitive to issues of intersectionality and the need for inclusivity and equality in all areas. I would like to build on the work our previous LGBT+ Officer has achieved, provide safe, welcoming spaces for LGBT+ members and help enable members in activism within Labour International and the countries in which they live.

As a member of the previous LICC I played an instrumental part in the campaigns we ran for the voting rights of British citizens living outside the UK and the registration of overseas voters. Those campaign have been neglected by the current LICC in favour of a spiteful campaign for so-called Open Selection. This was a simple attempt to deselect many Labour MPs that were seen as not being on the hard left. As LI does not have an MP and doesn't select candidates for Parliament, this was a complete waste of members' money and effort when LI should have been campaigning for things that directly affect our members. The last two years have been wasted on an irrelevant campaign. The Overseas Voters campaign is probably even more important today in the event of another referendum and the possibility of an early General Election. Labour International has a large number of its members in the European Union member states and should be fighting for the continuation of freedom of movement and our right to live, work and raise our families throughout the 28 states.

If elected, along with my fellow Political Education Officer, I propose that we organise a survey of our members on the political subjects they would most like discussed, and which methods of discussion would most appeal to them. This could include film/documentary reviews and book reading circles; as well as traditional speaker meetings; and participatory political discussions generated by members. I have been a Labour Party member since 1971. I am active in the Campaign for Labour Party Democracy and a critical member of Momentum. As such I am fully behind the leadership of Jeremy Corbyn as it seeks to transform our Party and society more generally. I have fully supported the excellent work of the outgoing Coordinating Committee. I hope that I can help to make the new Committee even more successful.

I stand for Secretary of Labour International. At times I have served as Constituency Labour Party (CLP) Chair, Secretary, Treasurer, and Parliamentary Agent. More history at www.charlesjames.name . I stand solo rather than on a slate because I understand the importance of all the members working together, including the Labour Party members who did not vote for Jeremy Corbyn. My all-inclusive approach is illustrated in http://charlesjames.name/the-effective-activist/ A good CLP Secretary is the CLP's engine room working with the other Executive members to achieve results. I intend to visit every branch virtually during my first year as Constituency Secretary. Our first duty is to increase the Labour vote among the millions of British people living abroad.

We have members in positions to spread the Labour word if we will give them the information and the resources they need. Some would welcome training. I certainly would welcome better access to Labour policy because it is sometimes quite a hunt to be sure that one has accurate information.

A second issue for Labour International is to build links with the socialist parties and with labour movements in the countries where we operate.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Party and our CLP is at a critical crossroads. Our once progressive, internationalist, broad church is no longer recognisable – it's overrun with members from a far left background that don't subscribe to democratic socialism; rather a revolutionary brand of Soviet-era Communism. In my view the Party has become a haven for anti-Semites and baiters of the Jewish community – we stand on the verge of a compulsory independent investigation by the EHRC. The problem is also, in my view, rife in our very own CLP; yet the current Executive have allowed publishing of newsletter articles downplaying the problem and referring to it as a weaponisation or smear – it is an utter embarrassment for a once proud anti-racist party. Our current leader continues to pursue Brexit (a Tory policy), against the wishes of the vast majority of members and arguably conference policy. His personal ratings are dire, despite the worst Tory government in history. His attitude towards foreign policy and international relations is a humiliation.

As Secretary I will push a zero tolerance approach to anti-Semitism and for campaigns against the party's damaging pro-Brexit policy. I will fight on issues and rights for international members – including voting rights for expats.

Our party is Internationalist, so it is only right we have a membership grouping that has the title "Labour International". As a group we have recently been divided on lines of little consequence to us. We need to come together to champion the rights of citizens and fight injustice in all parts of the world we live. We should not only advocate outwards but focus on making our voice heard within the party.

I've been a proud unionist all my adult life, I've been an active member of Prospect, GMB, and now Professionals Australia, where I am Branch Secretary for the scientist division.

I currently work as an Imaging Manager for a geophysical service provider in Perth, Western Australia. In this role, I am responsible for the scientific integrity of the projects we undertake, and handle budgets of more than $30m.

I volunteer my time as Treasurer at the North Fremantle Bowling, Tennis and Community Centre, where I managed a period of financial turmoil from previous committees. This involved accounting, auditing and compiling a business plan for our receivers – which have now been repaid in full. Today the club is strong; regularly hosting community events for local residents.

My name is Ian Hollingworth. I am standing for the post of treasurer as a member of Labour International Left Alliance (LILA). Please support all other LILA candidates. I am a retired mathematics teacher with a lifetime's experience of dealing with figures. As a (much) younger man I helped my father with his business accounts. I am a conscientious and efficient candidate. This is important. I would make it my watchword to deal with all branch claims speedily - delay causes resentment. Claims should be acknowledged and when payment is made notification to that effect should be sent to the claimant. I am very willing to undertake any necessary training the Labour Party might deem necessary for the job. Working with Vice Chair Membership I would stay in touch with branch treasurers.

LI Executive Committee Election 2019

Labour International has to have its finances in order so as to operate efficiently. Arrangements around conference are a prime example.

Working with the CLP Chair (who is also de facto Deputy Treasurer) I would work to produce an annual budget and fundraising plan.

My attendance record at Labour International Zoom meetings is a good one and I intend to continue this practice.

The completed form should be sent to:

LIEC2019@LabourInternational.net

to arrive no later than 12 noon on Friday 12 April 2019.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> TU member since I joined as technical apprentice in the engineering industry. Held various positions at factory, branch, district and national level. Always considered myself both a trade unionist and a socialist. Where possible, promoted trade unionism in the Party and socialism in TU activity. Believe that LI offers a great opportunity in the fight for the basic ideas which unite us with trade unions everywhere: peace, security and decent working and living conditions for all. Weakening TUs was key to Thatcherism (and successors) in undermining collective and solidarity action. We must reverse this tendency. Support the roles and tasks set out in the job prospectus but these are clearly too much for one person. They can be achieved working as a team throughout the organisation. If elected I'd take steps to help create such a team of members dedicated to contacting local and nation TUs; presenting LI and offering our services to promote our common aims within the limitations of our size and reach. This way LI can become another cog in an international machine rolling forward to a better world. A lifelong socialist, I joined the LP after Jeremy Corbyn's election, encouraged by the idea that we really could transform the party into a vehicle for positive change that focussed on people, and on policies that made a difference in people's lives. As a social worker in a very deprived area of London for 32 years, I often saw women bearing the brunt of the impact of successive damaging policies. I also saw how supporting women's groups could make a significant difference in raising confidence and participation towards change. Last year I was Women's Delegate for the LP Women's Conference and LP Conference, and I'm a member of LILA. I also belong to the Labour Women's Network. The starting point for me would be taking forward the issues in the recent survey in collaboration with other women members, including a Women's Forum, developing a skills bank, finding ways of using technology to include women struggling to participate, and liaising with other minority areas such as BAME, LGBT+ and Disability since we all intersect somewhere! These are key in working alongside women to address inequalities across our CLP, our party and the wider communities in UK and where we currently live.

We are William and Patrick, and we're currently service as joint-Charis of Young Labour International. William: I'm a 24 year old charity worker, currently living in Guernsey. I have really enjoyed being part of YLI for the last year, serving as their LGBTQ+ rep. I'm particularly interested in migrants rights, economic inequality and public services, as well as creating a just, pro-worker response to climate change. I hope to create interesting events for young Labour members abroad on those topics and others. I'm running for Youth Officer to represent all young Labour members abroad and help increase the profile and support the campaigning activities of young socialists wherever they are. Patrick: I'm a 17 year old college student living in Pennsylvania. I'm interested in expanding democracy and in radical and ecological approaches to industrial and infrastructural policy. I have had a great time as Under-19s officer of YLI in the past year and I look forward to having great conversations and connecting struggles for democracy and socialism this year in YLI. I am running for youth rep to meaningfully represent young people abroad in the Labour Party and elevate the efforts of young socialists internationally
